American Society of Missiology Graduate Student Paper Award

The American Society of Missiology announces the inauguration of an annual graduate student paper competition to recognize the best student paper presented at the society's annual meeting. The award is $500 and an opportunity to publish a revised version of the paper in Missiology: An International Review.

The competition is open to any graduate student ASM member who presents a paper at the annual meeting and who is enrolled at an institution of higher learning at the time the paper proposal is accepted. The paper should be in English, approximately 5,000 words in length, and can deal with any subject in the field of missiology. The paper must follow Missiology style guidelines.

The deadline for submission is September 1, 2017. Submitted papers should be sent to arun.w.jones@emory.edu and participants should expect an email reply confirming their submission. The prize will be awarded at the 2018 annual meeting, and it is anticipated that the recipient be present to receive the award at that time.
